Target Audience:	Teachers
Description:	We believe literacy learning should be developmentally appropriate and fun! In this session, teachers will explore how to use your new Kickstart Literacy™ materials to supplement your current practices to provide comprehensive literacy instruction, based on the science of reading. We start by helping you establish a strong oral language foundation in your pre-K classroom and then support you with how to build literacy skills from there. Through exploration and practice, teachers will leave confident knowing how to use each component of their new materials to help children develop skills in phonological awareness, phonemic awareness, phonics, and writing. Teachers will make connections between literacy experiences and objectives, and build a foundation of literacy vocabulary to support your practice.
Materials Required:	None
